Water Colours by Ray Swaluk

Being an avid outdoors man allows Ray to do most of his paintings and sketches on site, capturing true and vivid subject matter. The challenges are endless in NW Ontario. Four different seasons, rugged rock formations, ever changing views of Lake Superior, there is always something interesting to paint.

This year Ray has donated an original watercolour picture of the Sleeping Giant to the North Shore Steelhead Association.

Nothing defines the mystique of north-western Ontario better than Thunder Bay's Sleeping Giant. The Sibley Peninsula as seen from the City presents the artist with a thousand different views. The folk-lore and legend of the giant create opportunities for the artist to express some of this through their media. In Ray's case water-colours.
